The Wild Woman Who Steals Children

- Going into Massey theatre this morning, I had no idea what to expect from this presentation. I knew it would be something related to reconciliation, but had no idea that it would be this evocative. Dallas Yellowfly's presentation was by far the best I have ever seen and I was amazed by how powerful his talk was. Aside from how entertaining his presentation was, it was also very meaningful and sincere... The fact that he told his personal story about his dad's experience in the residential school and the consequences that have followed resonated with everyone, and made the whole audience take a minute to stop and think. This presentation fit very well into reconciliation week and what the purpose of it really is. (Paige Rains, Grade 11 NWSS Student.)
